SNEEK PEEK

Join us in person or via Facebook Live on Tuesday, May 7, 2024, at 6 p.m. for a preview of the changes coming to the Collbran Historic Auditorium. Our architect and construction team will be presenting renderings of the proposed exterior and interior finishes to the Board of Trustees and we'll post those to our website after Tuesday's meeting.

In the meantime, you may be wondering what's going on with the crew in the alien suits and all those fans? We have a group of experts that are professionally removing asbestos-containing materials and safely disposing of them. They have created a "negative air pressure" environment by sealing the building entrances and windows and all air is carefully and thoroughly filtered through high-quality HEPA filters of any loose asbestos fibers and other nasty stuff before it is blown back to the outside. A crew wearing safety gear and respirators will bag up and seal the contaminated materials (and tons of whistlepig poop) and haul them to a designated disposal facility. There are experts checking the experts and the State even sent one of their inspectors down to verify the containment field and methods. For those of you who may wonder about the old film projectors - they are being carefully cleaned and left in place. This process should take about 2 weeks to complete and then the real work (and fun) of construction begins!

Anyone besides us dreaming of Cowboy Christmas.....

Congratulations
